

From 1790 to 1800.

The Directoire style covers the Revolutionary period and the beginning of the Consulat, when Napoleon Bonaparte came to power.

It is a neo-Classical style that is more severe, more archeological than Louis XVI, with light interior decorations focusing on simple lines.

